

Anniversary

Anniversary

By the way
Do you know what today is?
Look outside and acknowledge the autumn breeze
Witness the summer rain
And feel the liveliness of spring's blossom
For what this day holds
Is an indication of what brought us here
What ignited the flame that has forever remained ablaze
It is the passion that runs through our veins
The realisation of how far we've come
And the acceptance of the beauty that lies before us
This day holds truth and history simultaneously

It's our Anniversary

