

Virtue & Vice

Virtue & Vice

The radical may fight with the purity of Jesus all the while

The rich may win with the cunning of the Devil

The radical is always willing to lose all his worldly possessions (material and otherwise) to fight for a cause he truly believes in. On the other hand, the rich is more than willing to risk it all to win the cause. It's quite imperative to understand the difference between loss and risk. Also, note the fight and the win. How the one will fight for the sake of making a statement (win, lose or draw) and the other constitutes in the aforementioned for a sure thing, a win. Despite this viewpoint, the parable of Virtue & Vice holds much water. Be careful not to drown in its infinite nature.
