

CONVICTION

CONVICTION

Conviction is by definition, "a firmly held belief or opinion". And yet with all these opinions, conviction is what is lacking.

Its funny how the (m)asses confuse that with arrogance somewhat. These two have zero correlation and yet when u imprint your beliefs on the face of the earth verbally or physically (or otherwise) it's viewed by most as arrogant conduct. Like how dare you believe so strongly about the way you see things

Funny how when you give a person exactly what they want, their lack of conviction is exactly what makes them fold in the end. It's the very same thing that premium poker players use to sell you a bad hand and still win the pot. CONVICTION

I wonder if any of the naysayers have an ounce of conviction running through their veins?