

Necessity is the mother
of Invention

Necessity is the mother of Invention

Necessity is truly the mother of all inventions.

There is nothing the human mind cannot comprehend, fathom or understand. There isn't a single thing borne of knowledge to which we cannot learn and master.

Free from excuses and procrastination we can overcome any challenge so long as we strive for continuous self-improvement.

I choose to be better than my former self.
I'd rather die enormous than live dormant

