

Let me be

Let me be

If I ever said I loved you
Know now that I love you as a memory
You lived in me. You were me
It was a cut too deep to put a Band-Aid over
But with time I managed to make you what you thought you wouldn't become

It was the time that kept me company
It was the motions that held me together
It was its footsteps that you saw in the sands

Today I stand taller than you
Today I remember why I left u behind
Today I let go of the reasons for keeping you alive
Because all you are is a memory
