

Crying Everyone's Tears

Crying Everyone's Tears

For the moment we found peace of mind

A moment that doesn't last but makes everything worth while

Let's break out the emotions and live in the moment

Take a look around and see who has my heart

None are so inclined to get this close to me

My promise is to get close enough to taint you

Place a mark on you that I will follow to the end

The biggest part of me is dormant

It is in need of your awakening

Let it be for the betterment of our connection

And may we realise our enduring affinity for one another

