Dirty Wars & Polished Silver

Cotton picking went too far from the first pick
All that for the clean cut white pressed cotton shirts
Strictly for the haves
Forget the have not
And yet none of this is complete without a girl's best friend
Diamonds are forever and so is the stain of blood

Sierra Leone

How could we forget
Rhetorical and yet they order more
A second helping of the devil's pie
Bodies missing limbs like Thanksgiving chicken

An eye for an eye

Recall the one eyed king, we need his kinship
I hope that my dark skin doesn't dirty my white suit
Ensuring my polished shoes remain unblemished
All for the sake of dirty wars and polished silver
